Association for Financial Professionals

PUBLICATIONS

AFP membership includes a subscription to the semi-monthly AFP Exchange. The AFP Exchange highlights important events critical to performance of a professional treasury manager's job. It provides articles of topical interest and "How to" articles written for all levels of experience from the new cash manager to the most senior treasury personnel.

AFP's weekly electronic newsletter – Online Headlines – reveals news impacting the financial marketplace.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The AFP sponsors an annual conference and various seminars throughout the year. Topics range from elementary treasury management principles to sophisticated capital management techniques and include both domestic and international issues. Other topics include Federal regulations (current and proposed) and current developments in leading edge technologies such as EFT/EDI. Speakers are recognized industry and government authorities.

CERTIFICATION

The AFP Certification Program is based on an extensive examination, which leads to the professional designation "Certified Treasury Professional" (CTP, formerly the Certified Cash Manager/CCM). This certification provides a national standardized objective measure of treasury management skills. It acts as a benchmark for the evaluation of the breadth and depth of knowledge in the treasury management field. Certification requires continuing education credits to maintain accreditation.

Association of Financial Professionals

The Southwest Ohio Association of Financial Professionals (SWOAFP) is an organization of treasury professionals from the tri-state area surrounding greater Cincinnati. The SWOAFP is a regional affiliate of the national Association for Financial Professionals. The purpose of the SWOAFP is to provide a forum for developing and improving the techniques of contemporary treasury management, and to provide the opportunity for networking and exchanging ideas.

ACTIVITIES

SWOAFP holds eight meetings throughout the year, featuring guest speakers and/or forum presentations on a full range of treasury topics. These include cash collection and disbursement methods, investment and funding techniques, interest rate exposure management, plus the newest developments in banking, government regulations, treasury workstations and electronic funds transfer/electronic data interchange (EFT/EDI). Each meeting begins with a social period followed by the presentation. This format provides ample time to exchange ideas with fellow members and their guests.

MEMBERSHIP

Membership in the SWOAFP is available to qualified individuals. Annual dues include the cost of dinner or appetizers for each of the eight meetings.

Information on membership in the AFP, and application forms, are available through the SWOAFP. Affiliation with the AFP provides access to the TMA's publications, annual conference, and certification program for treasury management professionals.
